Geohorizons is published by the Society of Petroleum Geophysicists (SPG), India. Geohorizons welcomes your contribution and articles on the latest researches and investigations in the field of petroleum geophysics, related geoscientific and engineering disciplines. News items about the Society, announcements and other features containing information of interest to the members of the Society are also welcome.

The statement of facts and opinions given in the articles published in the journal are made on the sole responsibility of author(s) and the Society or the editorial board cannot be held responsible for the same. Please see the Editorial Policy in this issue for more information.

Petrel

E&P SOFTWARE PLATFORM

Drill Your Best Prospects Objectively Assess Economic Value and Risk Factors

In depth prospect evaluation enables decision makers to understand uncertainty in potential resource volumes and assess expected economic value. With the Petrel* E&P software platform, exploration teams calculate play chance maps, simulate risked prospect volumes, and evaluate potential rewards—directly linked to data and interpretations.

With this critical insight, teams choose the best prospects with a clear understanding of their geological and economic chances of success.
